NICARAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 19.—After severe fighting with a force of 400 that suddenly closed in on them Oct. 9, a patrol of 40 American Marines and constabulary escaped from irregulars operating in the Nueve Sergio Department.

Sixty-seven irregulars were killed or wounded and four members of the constabulary were killed in the battle.

The fighting occurred when the patrol tried to penetrate brush roads in search of 100 Marine Corps aviators. Second Lieutenant A. Thomas and Sergeant Frank D. Donald, who were last seen running from their wrecked plane near Quilalí.

One small patrol led by Private Jason Treen passing through the brush engaged in a fierce fight with the irregulars, killing four of them. The patrol finally managed to cut its way out, but lost horses, mules, rations and blankets in the encounter.

Details of Battle.

The report of the fighting sent by the commanders of the patrol, Lieutenant George J. O'Shea, commanding a detachment at Jinotega, and Lieutenant J. B. Daniels, described two instances which indicated the irregulars had been tracts secretly concluded between Fall and Sinclair.

Moreover, Flinney continued leases upon Government oil lands immediately north of Teapot Dome granted a few months prior to the Teapot Dome's lease were greater after public competitive bidding and also brought much higher royalties than those which Sinclair paid.

On 6400 acres north of Teapot Dome leased during the year preceding the Teapot lease, the Government retained royalties which averaged more than 28 per cent on the production and cash royalties totaling $1,687,000. On the 940 acres in Teapot, it received from Sinclair royalties while having less than 20 per cent, and no cash bonus.

Asked Doheny to Be Silent.

Roberts read to the jury the letter which Fall wrote to Doheny after the Sinclair lease had been signed. In a memorandum attached to the letter, Fall said he desired nothing to be made public about the lease until after he had completed the lease with Doheny. Other contracts, he admitted, had been made public, one had been negotiated "outside the usual routine" and the water silence.

When Fall and Doheny were working out their scheme to exchange the Government's royalty oil for storage construction, Flinney said that Oscar Sutro, attorney for the Standard Oil Co. of California, wrote the department, calling attention to the fact that such an exchange would be illegal. Flinney said he called the letter to Fall's attention but that it did not help the plans. A similar plan of exchange had been provided in the Sinclair lease.

This concluded the trial for the day, perhaps the most impressive aspect of which had been the uniform failure of the defendant's attorneys to exclude evidence from the case. Justice Stidsons' ruling had been, without exception, for the prosecution.

Infantile Paralysis Decreases

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—For the first time since this year's spread of infantile paralysis, public health reports have shown a decrease in the number of cases. In the week ending Oct. 15, new cases were reported, a decrease of 71 over the previous week. Only two states reported increases. Washington with 33, compared to 15 the previous week, and Pennsylvania with 33, compared to 29 the week before.

Woman Flyer Relates Battle With Terrific Storm on Atlantic and Preparations for Forced Landing at Sea.

By RUTH ELDER.
Third Installment.

HORTA, Island of Flores, Azores, Oct. 13.—We were now flying into our second night, and our flight is nothing more or less than a real nightmare. The thoughts of that night, I believe, will always come back the rest of my life whenever I hear the wind blow or the rain patter against windows. And we seemed to have expected trouble, but our strongest anticipations fell far short of what we really went through.

Enclosed in our little compartment on the "American Girl," at an altitude of 10,000 feet, we battled the elements. Dr. Kimball and Mr. Scarf of the United States Weather Bureau had told us we would face difficulty, but little did we think that the sky ever could, or ever would, look so black as it did that night.

Wondered What Was Coming.

We looked out ahead of us and wondered what the end would be. We knew it was better that we entered the low pressure area at as high an altitude as possible. And yet it takes gasoline to make high altitudes and we had to consider the conservation of our supply for other eventualities. We worked the speed of the motor up to 1675 RPM steadily.

The Weather Bureau of New York had advised us that, if the low pressure area proved to be a storm, we would make better headway by going to the south of it. We made a careful study of our weather chart and believing ourselves to be heading into the center of the storm we changed our course to the south, figuring that we would fly a crescent shaped course from where we were.

Conditions Worse Than Before.

This was the last possibility at about Finisterre, Spain, and with his sisters, Charlotte, 12, Dorothy, 10, and Margaret, 6, was on the floor above the fire, which was in the living room, was awakened by the smoke and heat. "I felt like I needed a drink," he later explained. Realizing the house was on fire, he opened a front window and called for help.

While Obernier found the blaze and attempted to control it, his wife ran upstairs and led the children, in night attire, to the street, the maid following. Obernier's hands were burned.

Suddly we entered the tremendous rolling cumulus cloud banks and we felt that in a very few seconds we would be above the moon or the stars to look at.

For another hour we flew on steadily, always climbing slowly but surely, and at the end of this hour we were 2000 feet more away from the earth. Then, to add to our trouble, it began to rain frightfully. And with the rain the thermometer on the wings read real 23 degrees.

It was now about 7:30, and I realized that there must be some danger with the thermometer that low. Ice was forming on the wing struts.

George then asked me to take the controls and to keep the indicator at zero. This was because we wanted to avoid any possibility of further freezing by going any higher. I was somewhat concerned at his leaving the controls to me when things looked so dark, but he returned in a few seconds. I saw he had put his gloves on and had placed the very signal pistols, several parachute flares and smoke bombs between us. I asked him to take the controls, but he refused and informed me that he was attempting to remain as cool as possible.

While he did this I remained at the controls and he soon picked up a passenger boat.

Prepare for Landing.

I had no more than realized this condition when George suddenly told me we could not remain aloft any longer, something wrong with the oil—ice covering the plane gradually and around it all that black storm with its lightning flashes. George came to his decision suddenly. He turned to me and said:

"Go back and put on your life suit. Ruth, we don't know what we will find underneath us. We are certainly getting nowhere up here."

I climbed over the gas tank to my suit. As I did so I offered up a prayer that we would come to no harm. I still had a strong conviction that we would be saved.

Even though facing a graver danger I was not sorry that we had started. I was no longer afraid. I was confident we would be soon picked up by a passenger boat.

To Be Continued.

killed several bandits heavily armed.

The patrol finally escaped, but was splintered, the fighting courageous.

The report just received details of the expedition which went immediately in search of the missing American aviators after they had presumably been carried off by the bandits. It says:

"The patrol early in the morning of Oct. 9, advancing cautiously in the vicinity of the crashed plane on Soputina Mountain, six miles northwest of Quilal, was suddenly attacked from three sides by a bandit force of 100 well armed and with plenty of ammunition and incendiary bombs."

The patrol fought courageously against the superior numbers, but was forced to withdraw and fight its way to the rear. Lieut. O'Neill and Private Henry McKenzie at the rear effectively used hand grenades and automatic rifles, killing seven, among them a bandit leader, Mayorga.

Lieut. O'Neill leading the advance and using grenades, and Corporal John Z. Neel with rifle and grenades inflicted heavy damage. There were no casualties among the Marines.

The spirit was splendid, the fighting courageous, one Guardsman member continued to fight after half his rifle barrel had been shot away."

Today Instead of 6:45.

The folks from O'Fallon, and Greenville, and Lebanon, and Pike County—both Missouri and Illinois—came to St. Louis today to see the Veiled Prophet's parade tonight, and to view the tornado ruins and other sights of interest during the day.

When the Prophet sets forth over his brilliantly decorated 6-mile route at 7:15 o'clock this evening—the regular time schedule has been restored instead of the one a half-hour earlier, announced yesterday—he is likely to find awaiting him a greater throng than any in his recollection.

The number of visitors, arriving through the day by train, trolley and bus and in their own automobiles, will run to many thousands. Also, a larger number of St. Louis spectators than ever is predicted—and "ever" is a high mark to exceed, for in past years the streets, sidewalks, windows, porches and front yards along the parade route have been filled.

One sector of the route, that along Olive street west of Twelfth near Locust boulevard, will be opened at 7:45 a.m. The main entrance on Washington boulevard will be opened at 7:30. The time for the opening of the musical program is 8 o'clock. An orchestra of 75 will play during the ceremonial features of the ball, and two orchestras will alternate in dance music.

Rules and arrangements will be essentially those of last year, with some improvements in the matter of distance and speed. Streets near the Coliseum will be closed for several hours.

Those bound for the ball must show their tickets at different places on the approach to the Coliseum. Special parking space will be provided for the cars which are to wait for guests.

The Justice of the Peace Rice, after considering the case, decided that dogs and hats should be kept separate.

He upheld the rightfulness of Golluber's bill. As for Miss Laban, she must sue Golluber personally for the price of the dog and should have done so. She declared he owes her $50 more, not for the keep of the Peke since June.

Ball Tomorrow at Coliseum.

Tonight, at 7:15 p.m., the Coliseum, the Prophet will make his second and final public appearance which constitutes the actual ball and will choose his Queen, to reign until next October.

The Coliseum has been adorned in green, blue and gold, with the Veiled Prophet's traditional purple yellow in the royal canopy of his shop.

Elaborate ceremonies, as in past years, mark the entrance of the matrons and maids of honor, of the Prophet and his train, and of the special maids, with the newly chosen Queen last of all.

The coronation ceremony will take place earlier, and the dancing which constitutes the actual ball will begin sooner than in past years. This is made possible by eliminating the ball or other spectacular feature before the Prophet's entrance.

NEW YORK CAFES THAT SELL "SET-UPS" WILL BE RAIDED
Federal Agents to Start Clean-Up Campaign on Strength of Chicago Decision.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Hotels and night clubs that "don't sell their alcohol" but willingly dispense such highball accessories as cracked ice, ginger ale and glasses, learned yesterday that from now on they will be placed by prohibition enforcement officers in the same category as their liquor-selling competitors.

Announcement to that effect came yesterday from the office of Prohibition Administrator Campell, after the refusal of the United States Supreme Court to hear an appeal from a Chicago padlock order.

The United States attorney for the eastern and southern districts of New York likewise announced the law would be applied according to the recent interpretation.

The Chicago appeal was based on the theory that sale of "set-ups" did not violate the law.

DEFENDS COOLIDGE POLICY IN TARIFF ROW WITH FRANCE

Head of World Chamber of Commerce Urges Business Men "to Stand by Administration."

By the Associated Press.
WEST BADEN, Ind., Oct. 19.—The Washington administration must be backed to the utmost by American business in its attempt to negotiate with France for uniform tariff regulations, Julius H. Barnes of New York, vice president of the International Chamber of Commerce, asserted in his address before councillors and directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in session here yesterday.

In addition to urging American firmness in the current tariff dispute between this country and France, Barnes pointed out the picture of Europe, economically shackled by ten centuries of traditional rule amounting almost to feudalism, trying in the days since the war to overcome the economic disparities between that continent and the United States.

"For ten centuries in Europe," he said, "the opportunity of the individual, his field of activity and his economic existence have depended upon the permission of the ruling class. That is why there is a labor movement in Europe today which is manifestly political. As a result, tariff bargaining by an employing class that regards Government as an agency of economic enterprise is sordid with political influence.

New Economic Policy.
"But in America we have evolved a new economic philosophy of the well being of a people first—readily increasing manufacturing enterprise of high wages and low cost of living, insuring our prosperity. That concept has not reached the old world. France tells us that it wants special concessions on stockings, silk and perfume. I hope that business in the United States will stand by the administration which contends for a tariff without discrimination."

Barnes said that the European philosophy found expression in bread prices. "We Americans hardened tradition there that to pinch a penny off the loaf of bread is more important than to put a dollar in the day's wage. In America we have passed that stage. Our people no longer question the price of bread which is stabilized the year around. But in Europe there is still the production of cheap bread that drives down the opportunity of decent living."

Although American people may look toward the leadership of business men for industrial peace and prosperity, there is no such anticipation justified so far as international groups of business men are concerned, he said. Breaking down of the European tradition of interrelated policies and economics will be a long process and one which will require patience from this country.

Resolutions Ratified.
Barnes' remarks on the tariff and European conditions were somewhat of a departure from his speech voicing the opinion that the American economic theory of high wages, industrial peace and individual prosperity was gaining a foothold in Europe. He said that the dawn of a new era had come in Europe but that accomplishment remained similar to those attained in this country would still be somewhat remote.

Directors of the organization today gave formal consideration to resolutions passed yesterday by the National Council of the Chamber which, after hearing pronouncements of officers and committees, formally passed nearly a score of resolutions. Ratification by the directors was regarded as a formality.

The National Councilors, representing cross sections of every industry and coming from every corner of the United States, yesterday approved the recommendations of President Lewis E. Piereson of New York, for a program for organized business.

ECZEMA IN DRY PATCHES

On Arms, Hands and Face, Cuticura Healed.

"From the time I was a child I was bothered with eczema. It broke out in little dry patches on my arms, hands and face. It caused a burning, pricking feeling, and I could not wash my hands in water. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I lost my rest many nights on account of it."

"I used other remedies, but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using five cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Avis Holmes, Rt. 10, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. See Mc. Ointment $5 and Mc. Talcum Mc. Bold everywhere. Manufactured by the Lederle Laboratories, Dept. H. M. M. Co. Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

INVALID NURSE
MISSING; CLOTHES
FOUND AT RIVER

Search Begun for Miss Elsie
C. Farnsworth, 40, Who
Tuesday.

A search is being made for Miss Elsie C. Farnsworth, 40 years old, an army nurse during the World War, whose clothing was found on a Mississippi River bank last Wednesday, the day after she was released from the Veterans' Hospital at Jefferson Barracks, where she had been a patient.

Near the water's edge, a short distance from the hospital, her brown coat, blue hat and a handbag, which contained undergarments, were found by hospital employees and turned over to Deputy Constable Geizelauer, who since has been searching for her.

Miss Farnsworth entered the hospital three weeks ago, suffering from the effects of a nervous breakdown. She left without permission after spending two days at the hospital and went to her home at Springfield, Mo., but later returned to the hospital. Upon her discharge as a patient last week, it was understood she would return to her home, but she failed to do so.

Her 72-year-old mother, Mrs. Lucy Farnsworth, with whom she lived on a farm near Springfield, last night said she had not heard from her daughter since Oct. 19, when she received a melancholy letter.

Miss Farnsworth suffered a nervous breakdown after nursing through the influenza epidemic. Her father died about a year ago, and their farm near Jefferson City was lost in litigation. Miss Farnsworth and her mother then moved to the farm near Springfield, purchasing a farm with the aid of an army pension which she received. Miss Farnsworth, her mother said, had expressed fears the pension might not be permanent.

Col. I. R. Wagner, who is in charge of the Veterans' Hospital, said that any examination Miss Farnsworth had undergone to determine if her pension would be extended doubtless would have resulted in a recommendation for extension. Records of the hospital show Miss Farnsworth, an army nurse, but do not show where she served. Neither is the amount of her pension known at the local hospital.

MEXICAN RIVERS OVERFLOW
Rainfall of 52 Hours Accompanied by High Winds.

By the Associated Press
NAZCALES, Ariz., Oct. 19.—Dreadful results of the rain today told of high winds, rains of cloud-burst proportions and ocean storms striking along the gulf coast of Mexico Sunday and Monday with heavy property loss.

The State of Tabasco was visited by heavy rains which fell for 52 hours, causing streams to overflow and flood many small towns. Many houses in the city of Huimanguillo were reported tumbled in the rush of flood water. The Grisales River, which flows into the town of Tlacotalpa while heavy losses were incurred in farming districts. Puerto, Mexico, an important seaport, was reported to have suffered considerable damage.

MISERY AFTER EVERY MEAL

Texas Man, Who Had Suffered Severely, Tells How He Got Rid of Indigestion by Taking Black-Draught.

Mr. Fred Sterdt, of 503 East Second Street, Taylor, Texas, tells an interesting story of how he recovered good health after having suffered severely from indigestion. His family and friends were anxious about his condition, and Mr. Sterdt himself says he "almost gave up hope."

"I suffered awfully with gas on my stomach after every meal," says Mr. Sterdt.

"Nothing I ate agreed with me. I was in a frightful condition. One day my sister said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?' So on her recommendation I sent and got some. At that time I was not able to do a thing for myself. I began on the Black-Draught, taking it according to directions.

"Very soon I began to improve. I found I was able to eat my meals without the dreaded after-effects of gas and pains in my stomach. I kept it up for several months. All the time I was improving. I began to grow stronger. My health was slowly returning. It encouraged me so much that I kept right on with the medicine. Now I can work as I formerly did."

"I feel that I owe my return to health entirely to Black-Draught."

COOLIDGE GIVES PRAISE TO VICTOR OF GETTYSBURG

Applauds Gen. G. G. Meade's Stability of Character in Accepting Statue of Commander.

NOT DASHING BUT OF SOLID QUALITY

Faced Criticism in Refusing to Pursue Lee, Believing His Own Forces to Be Disorganized.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Accepting the monument in memory of Gen. George Gordon Meade from the State of Pennsylvania on behalf of the Government today, President Coolidge praised the victory of Gettysburg as a "responsible and reliable commander, one who inspired confidence and could be trusted." The monument is in the botanical gardens near the foot of the capitol.

"The conflict in which he took such an important part," the President said, "has long since passed away. The peace which he gave us has come." The reconciliation which he sought is complete. The loyalty to the flag he followed is universal. Through all of this abides his own immortal fame."

Failure to Pursue Lee.

The life of the Civil War general was recounted in detail by Mr. Coolidge who found in Meade a man of "sufficient character to rely on his own judgment and sufficient confidence to do what he thought was right." This phase of Meade's character, the President said, was demonstrated strongly when after the winning of the battle of Gettysburg he declined to have his men in pursuit of Lee because "he believed his army disorganized although the best military opinion of the moment was that he erred in remaining behind."

"When it is remembered that before this terrific engagement Meade had been in command of the army only three days," Mr. Coolidge declared, "his victory becomes the more powerful. The more we study the history of the war in which he fought the more Gen. Meade stands out as a responsible and reliable commander. Others may have had more dash, though none surpassed him in courage."

Not Dashing, But Substantial.

"He did not engage himself in headlong hopeless charges. He was, rather, a general who kept himself sufficiently informed as to the movements of his enemy and made such preparations and wise disposition of his own troops that hopeless charges were not necessary. It cannot be said that he always won, but he experienced very little defeat."

This personality was well rounded out. It appeared to possess no lofty peaks, it was not marred by any deep depressions. If he was sometimes quick of temper he was eminently sound of judgment. He was a solid and substantial man, one who inspired confidence, one who could be trusted."

U. S. DELEGATE PROPOSES REVISION OF EXPORT TREATY

At Geneva Conference, Hugh Wilson Suggests All Nations Share Rationing Proportion.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Oct. 19.—In view of the Franco-American tariff question, the international conference for the removal of restrictions on exports took on special importance, mainly because of the introduction of an amendment by Hugh Wilson, American delegate to the draft of a convention concerning the rationing of goods for exportation and importation.

The draft treaty provides that when licenses are required for exportation, the statutories shall comply with the provisions of the convention for simplification of customs formalities.

Wilson, the new American Minister to Switzerland, told the conference the United States is not a party to this convention and that it would do well to accept its stipulations with the additional clarifying article that when rationing of exports and imports seemed necessary, all the signatures shall have a right to an equitable share in proportion to their normal volume of trade in the particular class of goods affected. He further proposed that in application of this provision, no distinction should be made between direct and indirect shipments.

M. Serroy, the French delegate, declared the new article or paragraph proposed by the United States clearly raised the question of whether the policy of a "most favored nation" clause in international commercial treaties was to be applied to the rationing of exports to various countries.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Better Pigeonhole the Franchise, Mr. Mayor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN the hearing before the State Public Service Commission of the application of Yelloway, Inc., for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate a bus line from Kansas City to St. Louis, the legal department of St. Louis set up the claim that St. Louis has exclusive jurisdiction over all questions of rates and service over its streets by the applicant and service by its streets by the applicant.

"The City of St. Louis" ruled Judge Ingraham, "has more rights in regard than the smallest city, town or village in the State. It is a part of the State of Missouri, and it cannot by ordinance or otherwise nullify or make inoperative any of the laws of this State."

Then what has the City of St. Louis to gain by granting a franchise to the Public Service Co., successor to the reorganized United Railways? The granting of a long-term franchise will enhance the market value of the securities of the company, but what will it do for St. Louis and its car riders? Servicing a car is a blash-sounding phrase which means nothing. An extravagant administration could accomplish wonders in the direction of higher fares. Better pigeonhole the franchise, Mr. Mayor.

J. J. D.

Dramatic Criticism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHEN in the name of Mrs. Whiffen and Mr. Richard Mansfield who says that Mr. Meyer's glorious satire, "The Firebrand," "inclines over much to bombast which was well enough 30 years ago, but not now?" I will tell you who he is (unless my memory is greatly at fault). He is the same person who, coincidently, was responsible for the performance of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," expressed the hope that next time the society for club or whatever it was would produce one of Wilde's "good plays." It is such repeated asininity as this that remind one that, after all, such a generally good play as yours is human—to lovers of the drama, and I don't mean the long-haired idiots who pronounce it drayman, and to a hand like myself—you are inhuman.

KEY OF THE IRON CURTAIN.

Jim Should Dash at This.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MY choice of James Reed as its standard bearer in the Democratic convention—After all the great American State whose battle cry is "Show Me" has made her decision as I always trusted she would in favor of Americanism. There is no State of this indissoluble Union a greater, a more deserving, a stancher defender of American principles than James Reed of Old Missouri. When the pages of American history replete with evidence of the nation's trials and tribulations, the undimmed luster of past, present and future, are again turned by the affectionate hands of unborn generations, the name of Missouri's favorite son and patriot will be embazoned on that page wherein gleams the names of Washington, of Webster, of Jefferson and Henry Clay.

The Assassination at Prague.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE young Albanian student Agivida Bebi, made no attempt to escape when he killed Tsena Bey, Albanian Minister at Prague. Because Bebi is not murderer. But only true son of Albania. He killed the traitor of Albania. Because the Albanian believed in a government by the people, of the people and for the people. The true American believes.

PETER M. KOSTA.

Underground Street Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DOWNTOWN St. Louis is greatly handicapped by its narrow streets. Why not make the best of them by placing street cars underground in the district from Eighteenth to the river and from Washington to Walnut? And this will give us a good start on a subway.

Boston has done it, and the absence of street cars on the surface of downtown streets has helped the city. Chicago has been taking subways for 20 years. Let us get together and see if we can't get ahead of them in this one important transportation problem.

A ST. LOUIS FAN.

Finds Corp. Police.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IHAVE just finished reading in your Sunday edition William Ullman's comment on the importance of polite policemen. There is a great deal of merit in what he said.

I came to St. Louis from the East a year ago to make my home and, as any business takes me into all sections or the city, I have found the policemen and firemen both in St. Louis and University City, where I reside, at all times very polite and eager to assist me.

I take this opportunity to show my appreciation for the courtesies shown me by them. Keep the good work up, boys. It's a great boost for St. Louis.

T. C. WORTHINGTON.

SENATOR BORAH'S ULTIMATUM.

We do not agree with Senator Borah that the leading political parties should accept Federal prohibition as a settled question and insist upon its enforcement. We agree that the political parties should frankly and unequivocally define their position on Federal prohibition.

The Federal prohibition question is not settled. It is not a dead issue. It is the liveliest and biggest political issue before the country. The eighteenth amendment has changed the Constitution, and the effort of the Federal Government to enforce the drastic Volstead act at any cost. We agree that the political parties should frankly and unequivocally define their position on Federal prohibition.

The parent Curtiss company abandoned the commercial field, which it found unprofitable, several years ago. Since then it has built only Government planes. The success of Lindbergh, Byrd and others during the past summer has had such a stimulating effect on aviation as to assure a new era in flying, of which the Curtiss company's decision may be said to be the real inaugural.

In the sentiment and the logic of the situation, St. Louis is naturally elated at the report that the

THE MAIN PLANT IN ST. LOUIS.

Curtiss Airplane and Motor Co. has decided to re-enter the field of commercial aviation, through a subsidiary company, in which local capital will be interested, and that the main production plant will be located in this city. Though negotiations have not been completed, they have apparently progressed far enough to warrant the assumption that the deal is as good as closed.

The parent Curtiss company abandoned the commercial field, which it found unprofitable, several years ago. Since then it has built only Government planes. The success of Lindbergh, Byrd and others during the past summer has had such a stimulating effect on aviation as to assure a new era in flying, of which the Curtiss company's decision may be said to be the real inaugural.

In the sentiment and the logic of the situation, St. Louis is naturally elated at the report that the Lindbergh's triumph is one of those imponderables that direct destiny. Then there are the realities which Lindbergh has so convincingly stressed, namely, that St. Louis geographically is the country's aviatorial center from both the standpoints of operation and production.

There is another factor. We know that, in commercial aviation, we have lagged far behind Europe.

Again, we are assured by the men who know that, because of our great territorial extent, our tremendous industrial activity and political and business unity, the United States is equipped to develop commercial aviation on a surpassing scale.

So the moving finger writes. Its script is aerial argosies sailing all the skies. It points prophetically to St. Louis.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

The French are very critical of the Russian Ambassador in Paris. That is not an easy post, and M. Rakovsky, who has just been recalled by request of France, made the mistake of thinking it is. At any rate, he went so far as to answer things said in dispraise of Russia's part in the French debt settlement, and so became persona non grata.

Russia suggests substituting for him M. Dovgolevsky, her Ambassador to Japan, who is thought to be acceptable to Japan. The affair is symptomatic of all Europe's uneasiness over the influence of the Russians, which has become such a bogey man as the world has never known until now.

One wonders that it does not sometimes occur to the United States that the poverty and consequent demoralization in which we are helping to hold Europe by lifting a high tariff against her manufacturers and demanding the money she owes us probably gives Russian influence over there a penetration it otherwise would not have.

We might think that over.

One of the channel swimmers is to try it again, in order to vindicate the swimmers. What they really need is justification, not vindication.

SENATOR NORRIS' PROGRAM.

Senator Norris of Nebraska is the leader of the progressive wing of the Republican party in the United States, which is, by default of the Democrats, the nearest thing we have to an opposition party. How positive is such leadership and how tangible are the aims of the progressives may be determined by an inspection of Norris' program for the next session of Congress.

First of all, he stands for honesty in government and against the proposition that seats in the United States Senate are open to the highest bidder. Thus, he will challenge at the doorsteps the right of Smith of Illinois and Vare of Pennsylvania to enter the Senate. He and his colleagues will attack Smith for accepting campaign contributions from Samuel Insull, public utility magnate, while Smith was still sitting as chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

They will attack Vare on the ground that, by lavish and immoral floods of money, he bought his election.

Nothing but the rankest cowardice and hypocrisy keep the two leading political parties from making frank declarations with regard to their positions on Federal prohibition, on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. Eventually the people will force the issue into the open. Why not now?

HOW TO SQUELCH TEDDY.

We think that newspapers friendly to Gov. Al Smith will be unwise to devote much space to refuting the current ravings of young Theodore Roosevelt against the connection of the Governor and Tammany Hall with the underworld. We suggest that a better way to dissipate the fog raised by young Teddy is to turn to Henry F. Pringle's life of Smith and quote the latter's comment on the absurd sort of procedure in which Roosevelt is now engaged.

It occurred during a meeting of Al and the newspaper correspondents at Albany, some two years ago. The Governor was lolling back in his swivel chair, while he made evasive answers to the questions which reporters, ensconced on couch and window sills, flung at him. It began to look as though the correspondents would get nothing that day which was worth printing. Then someone asked Al about a particularly silly speech young Roosevelt had made the day previous, and everybody present got a welcome surprise.

"If bunk was electricity," said Al, "the Colonel would be a powerhouse."

It must be a distinct disappointment to a reformer to threaten to do something dreadful should Al Smith run, and have the country disregard the threat.

A TRADE BARRIER TO THE INTELLECT.

It appears that the high rates of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act are not the only sort of trade barrier which this country imposes. According to the National Association of Book Publishers, the present domestic postal rates on books are so high as to act as a trade barrier to the intellect.

In a pamphlet which this organization is circulating, some of the injustices and absurdities of these rates are exposed. It costs only 3 cents, for example, to mail two pounds of magazines and newspapers, containing reading matter exclusively, from New York to San Francisco, but 26 cents to send books of the same weight over the identical route. A two-pound book may be sent from New York to Japan for 16 cents, but it costs 4 cents to mail the same volume from New York to San Francisco.

The last fact is surely an enlightening commentary on the present rates, and an adequate justification of the campaign of the association of publishers to get them lowered. A device which permits a foreign reader to obtain books cheaper than a citizen of the country in which the books are published is as indefensible as it is ridiculous. Not even in the days when rulers sought to stem the tide of enlightenment by consigning volumes to the fire did any ingenious tyrant conceive of such an absurdity.

Blackmer says he is staying in Europe because his testimony could not help the Government. The question of what effect his testimony might have on his friends at once arises.

THE IRONY OF POLITICS.

Omaha World-Herald:

JAMES R. GARFIELD, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, announces that the Roosevelt medal this year for distinguished service in the development of international law will be awarded to John Bassett Moore. The medal will be presented Oct. 27, at a banquet at the Roosevelt birthday in New York. John Bassett Moore, it may be recalled, was prominent as a supporter of the League of Nations Permanent Court of International Justice. It is in that capacity he has rendered the service to the development of international law that now wins him the Roosevelt medal. The great president and statesman in whose memory the award is made, in the closing months of his life, unspuriously antagonized the league whose existence has made possible John Bassett Moore's notable contributions to the cause of peace. The Moore award is another of the little ironies of political history.

For the ordinary leader that issue, involving as it does a clash with all the reactionary powers of Republicanism, would be enough, but there are other things Norris hopes to do. He will continue his gallant fight to prevent the Power Trust from seizing the great Government property at Muscle Shoals. He will work for the passage of a comprehensive flood-control measure to protect the Mississippi Valley from the recurrence of the disastrous flood of this year. For the farmers he will seek some measure of agricultural relief.

He objects to the present control by the executive of the Tariff Commission, and the packing of that bureau with tools of the tariff barons, and he will not let up in his drive to place the Tariff Commission under responsibility to Congress. Norris is one of the foremost opponents of the reproduction cost new theory of valuation of public utilities, and he will continue his campaign for the prudent investment rule.

Of Making Many Books
JOHN G. NEIHARDTThe Cowboy as He Was"JINGLEBOB."* By Philip Ashton Rollins. (Scribner's).

CULTURED Indian woman, daughter of the last chief of her tribe, once told the writer that, with a single exception, all literary representations of the American Indian from Cooper to Remington, were fundamentally absurd. In the matter of popularization, truth is ever at a disadvantage, for it is concerned with the imagination of ignoramus laborers o' such handicap and may easily achieve the spectacular.

An old-time cowboy of the writer's acquaintance—one who went with the first herd of longhorns out of Texas into Montana—feels the same way about the sympathetic literary cowboy. And this is to be wondered at. There are many tenth-rate writers who, knowing nothing whatever of the Old West, except what may be learned from movies and ridiculous novels, make a fairly good living by writing cowboy stories for a cent a word, and long ago it was rumored that most of the cowboy novels were written by escapist jumpers who never ventured beyond Hoboken. Indeed, anyone ought to be able to write an acceptable cowboy yarn after taking a glance at the approved formula, and the literary cowboy himself is so highly conventionalized that it would be impossible to go wrong in portraying him.

"Jinglebob" is a cowboy story; but unfortunately the author, Philip Ashton Rollins, is greatly handicapped by his exhaustive first-hand knowledge of cowboys and ranching in the old days. His former work, entitled "The Cowboy," is the last word on the subject, and there is reason to believe that it will survive as a classic. It is a comprehensive study of the old-time cattleman from the author's books.

In "Jinglebob" Mr. Rollins sets forth in story form a series of incidents characteristic of the old days of the open range. The latter book thus supplements the former. "Jinglebob" is not a fiction story. The chief character, whose name is the title of the book, was a real character, we are told. The events all happened within the author's experience, though not necessarily at the time and place indicated. "When the conversations, thanks to the memorandum in a diary, are, except for one sentence on page 187, probably almost verbatim."

The scene of the tale that Mr. Rollins has to tell is "an almost womanless realm." No beautiful and wealthy heroines "were available for succor," and the cowboy, being a hard-working man for the most part, could not find time for the constant practice of the detectable art of homicide. Nevertheless, "Jinglebob" is an intensely interesting book. It is also a notable contribution to the authentic literature of the Old West.

W. H. CLUNE, PIONEER MOVIE PRODUCER, DIES

One of First to Build Lavish Theaters—Fortune Estimated at $20,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 19.—Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by fire which partly destroyed the University of Missouri Chapter House of Sigma Chi fraternity here yesterday. Loss of personal property was not great.

Members hurled clothing books and other personal effects from the upper floors as the blaze destroyed the roof and damaged the third story. Water damage resulted in the two lower floors, but it was believed the house would be rebuilt.

The loss was covered by insurance. None was injured. The origin of the fire was not determined.

His fortune was estimated at $20,000,000.

Clyde during his life was described as doing much but saying little. He had few intimate friends.

O. K. Evans, secretary of the Clune Theater Co., the holding corporation for the Clune interests, said that the bulk of the estate was bequeathed to the theater man's son, William, who is president of the holding company. A sister, Miss Mary Clune of Hannibal, Mo., Clune's birthplace, was provided for.

A fortunate real estate venture gave Clune, who started as a railroad engineer, the money to open a small film exchange with a few comedy reels as his only stock in trade. It grew to a small fortune when he risked everything to build the first of his theaters to present screen dramas on what then was considered a lavish scale.

He plunged again into the field of producing and was the first to put out motion pictures.

Buying a studio from Mary Pickford, he produced such pictures as "The Clansman," "The Shepherd of the Hills," "Eyes of the World," "Ramona," and "Intolerance."

"Ramona," while not a great box office success, was the artistic masterpiece of its day and was credited with influencing the centering of motion picture production in Southern California.

For several years when he was establishing his chain of film theaters, Clune fought the enforcement of an old Los Angeles city ordinance prohibiting large electric signs. He refused to give up his ideas despite city bureau complaints against his determination to dress their fronts in electric lights and the brilliant signs endured long after the ordinance had succumbed to the advance of modern advertising.

VEILED PROPHET TALKS IN RHYME BY RADIO

For First Time in Nearly 50 Years His Subjects Hear Mysterious One's Voice.

The Veiled Prophet was a Vestigial Potentate when he took the air on radio station KMOX last evening. St. Louis, which has seen his robed form and his bearded face for nearly a half-century, had never before heard the old gentleman speak.

Naturally it had been concluded that the Prophet's forte was not public speaking, or he would have tried it sooner. So, to speak frankly, the expectations of radio listeners were not very high. The greater, then, was their pleasure when he spoke up clearly, and when he framed his message not in Jerry prose, but in well-rounded verse.

In his poetic efforts, the Prophet did not go after the laurels of "The Bard." But neither did he descend to the plane of Tin-Pan Alley, with stale rhymes such as "Roam-home" and "Town-renown." His verse, in meter and content, was worthy of a pupil of Edgar Guest or Ruth Goldberg. And it was easy to understand. Too much so for a real Prophet, who is not supposed to let people know what he is talking about.

No one could mistake, for instance, what the Prophet meant, and surely no one could find fault with his sentiments, when he rippled forth in these rondeaus:

I have chuckled with joy
And with love for the boy
Who was known to you all as your Slim.
For his wonderful flight
Off to Paris at night
Was a blessing to you and to him.
And in sports you have shown
That you've steadily grown
To a place where the world heeds
your name.
And I know that your men
Will be winning again
In the popular national game.

But with all of my pride
I am not satisfied
That you have traveled as far as you can.
Let ambition live on
For when all else is gone,
That alone can develop a man.
There's a water front here
Not deserving a cher.
It's neglected, I'm sorry to say.
Need I add more?
Must I plead and implore?
Let us brush all its cobwebs away.

There are other things, too.
That I know you will do.
There's a country that should be annexed.
May it fit in your plan
There's no doubt that you can
If you work on this part of my text.
And I see in the skies
Where your own Lindbergh flies Written clearly, in light and in flame.
There's an airport for you
That is bound to come true.
Bringing laurels of praise to your name.

Tornado Not Forgotten.
There was a good deal more, including a reference to the tornado, and lines about the beauty of the city and of the Prophet's chosen Queen, whose identity, however, was not hinted at.

Having some statistics on the city's growth to present the Prophet did not struggle with the task of putting them in rhyme, but let his First High Priest read them, in prose paragraphs. The figures were comparisons of the city in 1875, when the Prophet first came here, and this year.

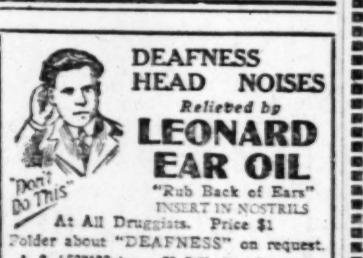

Trumpets were blown after his discourse, and after the Prophet's recital.

FIRST AWARDS IN REHABILITATION WORK GRANTED

Total of $1039 Distributed in Sums Ranging From $14 to $500, at First Meeting.

PROVIDE FURNITURE FOR STORM VICTIMS

Another Meeting of Committee of 29 to Be Held Friday — Daily Sessions Likely Later.

The first rehabilitation awards from the Red Cross tornado relief fund were ready for distribution today. Six tornado sufferers received a total of $1039.75 in amounts ranging from $14 to $500 by the Rehabilitation Committee in its first session yesterday afternoon.

The persons benefited will receive the awards on calling at 1st Cross Tornado Relief Headquarters, 1411 North Grand Boulevard. The awards are chiefly requisitions for furniture on merchants to be designated by the holders of the requisitions.

The cases were presented by Red Cross workers in a meeting session attended by 27 of the 29 members of the Rehabilitation Committee, citizens selected for their special knowledge and standing in business and professional circles. Another meeting will be held Friday afternoon at the First National Bank. Later daily sessions may be held to award awards for more than 6000 cases of families affected by the tornado must be reviewed before the task of rehabilitation is completed.

The relief fund today was increased to $88,000 as additional contributions were tabulated at the Mercantile Trust Co. Most of this will be available to pay the rehabilitation cost of restoring homes to some degree of their pre-tornado status where they are dependent upon the Red Cross for aid. The emergency relief work, Red Cross officials have estimated, probably did not cost more than $75,000. The relief phase ended formally Monday night and the accounting has not been completed.

Policy of the Committee.

In the four cases submitted to the Rehabilitation Committee where no awards were made, one was considered to be a need that did not qualify of the tornado, two families reported they needed no help in the fourth instance, a family had resources for aid other than the Red Cross. The committee met in the Directors' Room of the First National Bank.

In line with the Red Cross policy to restore the incomes of storm sufferers as soon as possible, three of six awards had to do with the recipient's livelihood.

A contractor whose equipment was destroyed in the tornado received an order for a set of tools necessary to his work.

The set of tools represented not more than one-eighth of the contractor's total loss, as present needs of storm loss is the basis of the awards.

A boarding house keeper whose income was wiped out by the tornado was given an award to furnish a sufficient number of rooms to enable her to take in roomers again.

Putting People on Their Feet.

A man who lost his horse and wagon in the tornado received a requisition for a horse and wagon. In making this award, the committee was informed the man was not suited for any other occupation.

Two other furniture awards were made, one to a family in which there were seven children. The sixth award was month, rent and payment of moving cost. Although some of this family's furniture was destroyed, the committee confined its award to rent and moving cost because the head of the family was making a salary considered sufficient and none of the destroyed furniture was regarded as essential to the comfort of the family.

The cases were presented to the Rehabilitation Committee by E. G. Steger, the secretary and director of field service, after careful investigation of the status of each family by trained field workers. A staff of 60 of these workers is making investigations of cases to be presented later. A detailed report of each case was made. Names were withheld to protect the identity of the families receiving aid.

Reported and Rebuilding.

Before the rehabilitation task—estimated at five or six months—is finished, the committee probably will have to pass on several hundred cases involving the rebuilding or repair of dwellings. These are taking time to prepare, for at least two bids from contractors must be submitted before the Red Cross will consider paying for the work. The relation of losses to the contract and the responsibility the Red Cross can assume will be the deciding points for building awards.

Red Cross officials are final judges of the rehabilitation cases but in 90 of 100 of them the plans of the family agree with those of the relief organization, according to Steger.

The Rehabilitation Committee is the only permanent committee of the relief organization. The household food and clothing committees active in the emergency phase, have virtually completed their work. Mrs. E. H. Steedman, head of the Community Council, is chairman of the Rehabilitation Committee.

Safe Robbers Get $50 in Grocery.

Burglars entered a vacant store at 4513 Olive street last night, tunned through a wall to enter the Kohn grocery store at 4311 and then rolled a safe back into an ice box, where they knocked off the combination and took about $50.

RHEUMATISM now treated a new way.

Stops pain by removing the cause. No opiates. No distasteful drugs. No dieting.

A new and more effective way to treat Rheumatism is now reported. An astonishing simple method is said to give almost immediate relief from this old ailment and its near kin, Lumbar, Gout and Neuralgia. The treatment originated in one of the exclusive health retreats of Europe, now celebrated for its success in Rheumatic cases. In accordance with advanced medical thought, which opposes drugs, the body, full use is made of Nature's own constant effort to heal. And so simple and necessary a thing as one's drinking water forms a large part of the treatment. Certain substances the body lacks are supplied in a vegetable extract which is dropped into the water several times a day. As a result Uric Acid crystals and other poisons causing the pain become liquid and flush from the body.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents. This can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

NEW YORK ARGUES ON TRANSIT PLAN OF ST. LOUIS MAN

5-Cent Fare Is Vital Issue in Projects of Charles E.
Smith and Samuel Untermyer,
Lawyer.

TAXES SUBSIDIZE
LINES, IT IS HELD

Engineer From This City
Opposes Municipal Ownership Because He Fears
Entry of Politicians.

New York is debating, in much detail and with some heat, the proposals of Charles E. Smith, St. Louis engineer and adviser to the city, for unification of the New York City transportation system. Smith's report made after five and a half months of study, was furnished to Comptroller Berry of that city, and the fee was $25,000. Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, noted contender in many legal and industrial jousts, is the chief assailant of Smith's plan. Untermyer, as special counsel for the City Transit Commission, has prepared a plan of his own.

The most controversial difference between the Smith and Untermyer plans is that Smith proposes to increase the present 5-cent fare to assure improved service, the first increase to be to 7 cents, or four tickets for 25 cents. Untermyer insists on retaining the 5-cent fare.

Smith proposes private ownership, subject to control and regulation. Untermyer proposes municipal ownership, by "recapture" of sufficient properties to form a municipal system, expecting that the remaining lines will find it to their interest to sell out to the city.

Clings to 5-Cent Fare.

New York has clung to the nickel fare while other cities have been paying 7 to 10 cents, although the argument has often been made that a 5-cent fare does not meet the cost of proper service, and that the difference must be paid by the public through some form of taxation.

Although generally recognizing that was true, New Yorkers up to this time have preferred to keep the low fare, a tangible benefit—if they did not stop to consider the service—and to pay such taxes as they must. They have reflected that, if fares were to go up, they would probably get no tax relief after all.

Smith, after his study of New York conditions, believed the limit of the city's control had been reached, and that New Yorkers, seeing their taxes mounting and rents increasing, are ready to have the city step its virtual subsidizing of the transportation system. At any rate, he holds, as an engineer, that increased fare is the only solution.

He does not favor municipal ownership, he says, because there is at present no way to insure a municipally-owned system against becoming a political football. The same, he adds, is true of St. Louis.

Fears Entry of Politics.

"Either in New York or here," Smith said in his office today, "a municipally-owned system might be established by city ordinance, possibly with the help of a State enabling act, and a non-partisan board of control could be provided, but at any session of the Legislature the measure could be amended to give the Mayor the appointing power. A New York Legislature in 1906 changed the non-partisan and self-perpetuating board which built the first subway to one appointed by the Mayor."

"Until constitutional safeguards against such changes can be made, the city can get as good or better results by private operation under public control and regulation than under municipal ownership."

The branches of the present New York City transportation system are: (1) the privately-owned surface lines; (2) the Brooklyn-Manhattan subway and elevated system, the subway being entirely owned by the city and north by the companies, and privately operated, and the "L" lines being privately owned and operated; (3) the Interborough Rapid Transit system, subway lines with a mixture of public and private ownership, and privately operated; and (4) the privately-owned and operated Manhattan "L" lines.

New subways intended to be municipally operated, now to be built by the city, will cost first estimated at $670,000,000, but estimated now by Smith as $800,000,000 or more. The law provides that these subways shall operate at a 5-cent fare the first three years, and that in the fourth year

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent cough and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest health agents for persistent, chronic colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is particularly valuable in the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Advise Using of Lines.
Smith's report to the New York Comptroller proposes complete elimination of all lines, with transfers, and a flexible fare, beginning at a 25 per cent increase over the present rate, to provide better service and development of new lines.

In his report, some 30,000 words in length, Smith finds that the average cost of hauling a passenger today is 6.14 cents. He terms the fixed 5-cent fare the curse of the situation, and denies the nickel fare is to be credited with relieving lower Manhattan of congestion.

The movement of population in New York, he says, has been much the same as in cities which have higher fares. On the other hand, he holds that because of "a bad transit policy or the lack of any policy," New York is losing its industrial dominance, particularly in the movement of business from the city to New Jersey.

"Five cents does not pay the cost of a ride either on the subway or on the elevated," he says. "The cost on the subway is 5 cents plus the taxes that have been waived, plus the charges on city investment paid by the taxpayer. The cost on the elevated is 10 cents, plus the sacrifice of the stockholders, in this case the Interborough Rapid Transit stockholders who hold the elevated lease." He dwells on the need for better service.

Urge Full City Ownership.
Other proposals of the Smith report are the joining of the new subways, now under construction, with the two present lines, the B. M. T. and I. R. T., to be merged; pooling of net revenues, with one-fourth of the profits to go to the employees; and full ownership by the city when amortization is completed. Under the present arrangement, the two city lines and equipment will become the city's property in 1968. This process, Smith suggests, may be speeded by "recapture" whenever the city's borrowing power is sufficient, and when constitutional safeguards against political control have been provided.

Opposing the Smith plan, the Untermyer plan calls for immediate recapture of the city-owned portion of the B. M. T. system; acquisition of some remaining portions by condemnation proceedings; purchase of the remaining B. M. T. lines in sole or part; merging of the new subways; and operation of this city-acquired system at a 5-cent fare, the other lines to be permitted to compete as best they can, unless and until they choose to sell out to the city. A board of control, of three representatives and five from commercial bodies, would operate the lines.

Recapture, as proposed by Untermyer, is provided for in the leases of subways to the I. R. T. and B. M. T. lines. The plan provides that after the tenth year (from 1919) the city may take over the subway lines by reimbursing the companies for their investment, plus 15 per cent. After the tenth year this recapture price, which is 115 per cent of the investment, diminishes by one-thirtyninth annually for 39 years, so that at the end of a period of 49 years, namely in 1958, the city acquires the companies' investment without cost.

Smith Points Out Flaws.
"The Untermyer plan," Smith says, "appears to me to mean years of uncertainty and expense. It would not provide for lines which now are partly city-owned, and might stop through service on such lines. It does not provide unification in a single or consistent form. It would be better to negotiate with the companies for a comprehensive system on agreed terms."

Untermyer has declared he wishes to question Smith about some of his conclusions. Comptroller Berry promised that Smith, although his work was finished, would appear when desired. Smith, after his return to St. Louis Sunday from several days' stay in the South, wrote to the Transit Commission, offering to appear there and testify. Untermyer, in his first comment on Smith's report, said the traction lines were to be congratulated on having obtained such an ally. Smith replied that this suggestion was "unk."

"No one," replied Untermyer, "expected Mr. Smith to admit that his work was inspired by traction influences, but if the companies can construct one more in their interest, and more unjust to the city, it would be interesting to see it."

Smith said he did not expect to be called to New York before next month. He commended the suggestion of Leader Olvany, of Tammany Hall, for a round-table conference.

BOARD OVERRULES BROD IN FIRE PUMPER ORDER

Director Fails to Land Contract for Firm Represented by Friend of Mayor.

Award of contracts for $128,200 for the last 11 pieces of motor fire-fighting apparatus to be purchased under a 1923 bond issue item has been decided on by the Board of Standardization, which disregarded recommendations of Director of Public Safety Brod to buy six pumpers at a relatively high price and to omit acquisition of two aerial trucks.

Director Brod proposed buying these pumpers from the Stutz Fire Engine Co., which is represented here by a friend of Mayor Miller's administration. Joined by his chief Alt, his subordinate, and the Mayor, he called a meeting of the Fire Department. Director Brod offered the Stutz equipment at a price of $62,700, on the ground that other apparatus of the same make used here have given good service.

Bids for Six Pumpers.
Low bid for these six pumpers, of 750-gallon capacity each, was $56,850, by the General Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis, but the Board of Standardization held this make had not passed a required test.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters had recommended this model because it was a reliable machine without a record of previous performance. Next lowest was the bid of the American-La France Co., $59,400, but Director Brod reported that equipment made by this company, bought last year, had not performed well.

Believing that pumpers from the Mack Co. offered for $61,500, were built better and were of greater value, the Board made the award to this concern. Other bids were: Four-wheel-Drive Auto Co., $62,355; Ahrens-Fox Co., $75,500.

If Director Brod's recommendation had been followed, and the aerial trucks bought also, total cost would have been $129,400, but the available appropriation was only $128,650. By ordering the Mack pumps, the Board was able to obtain all the equipment for $128,200.

The contract for the aerial trucks was awarded the American-La France Co., low bidder, for $28,550, because this apparatus was considered adequate under the specifications.

For one 1300-gallon pumper the contract was given Ahrens-Fox for $13,850, as recommended by Director Brod, although a low bid of $13,500 was made by American-La France. Quality and efficiency of five Ahrens-Fox pumpers of this size bought last year, and the desirability of uniformity in equipment of this capacity, were given as the reasons for this decision.

Low bid for two 1000-gallon pumpers, $23,900, was by Stutz, and the board followed the director's recommendation for this contractor because the machines were deemed adequate under the specifications.

Board Explains Action.
The Board of Standardization, comprising Supply Commissioner Dietz, W. E. Rolfs, associate to the president of the Board of Public Service, and Arthur C. Meyers of the Comptroller's office, presented the following explanation of its decision on the 750-gallon pumpers:

"It is not considered advisable to defer purchase of the aerial trucks. The Mack motor is balanced and creates no jolting vibration. The shaft is 2 1/2 inches in diameter, the heaviest submitted by any bidder. Motor and pump equipment is identical with that which passed the 12-hour test of the National Board of Fire Underwriters for 1000-gallon capacity.

Front and rear axles are of exceptionally rugged construction and the steering apparatus is so arranged as to materially reduce the turning radius. Headlights are delivered seat so as placed as to afford exceptionally clear vision, and the general tendency of the design is toward wider and lower build, affording a maximum of stability.

Liberal use of rubber shock insulation promotes easy riding qualities. The Mack Co. maintains 24-hour service in St. Louis, doing away with the necessity of carrying a stock of parts in the Fire Department shops and making available the service of Mack mechanics. The board is of the opinion that no warrant exists for the payment of a higher price for Stutz equipment."

The Fire Department bond item was $772,500. With this sum the motorization of the department has been completed and several engine houses built or repaired. A comparatively small balance remains in this fund, all of which has been appropriated to continue the house construction and repair work.

6 BASIC FACTS ABOUT USED CAR ALLOWANCES

1 When you trade-in your present car for a new car, you are making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.

2 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value; i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

3 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

4 The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

6 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

MISSOURI PLAN OF FLOOD RELIEF WINS APPROVAL

St. Louis Business and Financial Leaders After Survey Indorse Billion Dollar Proposal.

RETURN FROM TRIP DOWN MISSISSIPPI

Gov. Horton of Tennessee Thinks the Measure Will Be Acceptable to People of His State.

A delegation of business and financial leaders of St. Louis returned today, arriving at 7:30 a.m. by Frisco special train from Memphis, after a three-day survey of Mississippi River flood problems.

A billion-dollar Missouri plan covering both emergency relief and flood prevention was hammered into shape for introduction into the next Congress under nonpartisan auspices. Gov. Horton of Tennessee, who watched the main provisions being sketched out in a session in Memphis yesterday, said informally he felt sure they would meet with the approval of that section.

As indorsed by the delegation, the plan provides for a commission of army and civilian engineers and one man selected for executive ability, to take charge of the whole problem of flood control for the entire Mississippi Valley. Reimbursement of levee agents whose works are taken over is covered in this bill, but another is being drawn up to cover emergency relief to drainage districts, whose aim is land reclamation as distinguished from flood protection.

Bonds to Cover Cost.
A $1,000,000,000 appropriation would be authorized in a lump, with annual expenditures to come from treasury surplus or, in years when there is none, unclaimed by prior appropriations for other purposes from a bond issue to cover that year's work. Finances would not come under the control of any agency except the treasury, and engineering operations would be outside the control of any Federal department or bureau.

Senator Harry B. Hawes, a committee of financial, legal and engineering experts on the Cape Girardeau, on which the delegation left St. Louis Saturday night, hammar away stories on the Missouri River. A chief purpose of the cruise was to obtain guiding information at first hand from communities which have been grappling with the Mississippi for a century with their very existence at stake. Some of its major provisions were altered after consultation with experienced engineers on board in the four communities surveyed.

An Engineer's Suggestion.
An outstanding feature of the plan from the standpoint of emergency engineering, suggested by an engineer, is that the functions of the commission should be focused on a single aim:

"All to the end that between the Gulf of Mexico and the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, the flood stages along the Mississippi River shall not exceed those attained in the year 1927."

Reasons for that provision were graphically shown to the St. Louisans. They saw levees built in almost every contour imaginable, regardless of topography, and full of holes and breaks. In some places, it might reclaim a few more acres of bottom land but, engineers declared, were points of vulnerability in a flood.

Scarcely second in impressiveness to the reminders of the 1927 disaster in these communities was the complete divergency in the remedies best for each, as stated by their leaders and shown to the St. Louisans. One community, in they covered many miles by automobile. And no less remarkable was the lack of bitterness in statements that present means for protecting one community had endangered another.

Helpful Spirit Shown.
Calro citizens told the delegation that higher levees without a spillway above Calro, setting back of levees below, or other means to lower flood levels, would mean that "we took our town and we are abandoning right now." New Madrid people made it clear that their only hope was in stronger levees right where they are.

But in both cases, the spokesmen simply gave their views of what was best for them and urged its inclusion in the program for the whole river if it were possible without damage to some other part of the valley greater than the local damage it was meant to prevent.

OF FLOOD RELIEF

Caruthersville citizens took the St. Louisans 20 miles to seven spillways, ditched 40 to 100 feet wide, which removed 100,000 cubic yards of the waters from the Dugout cresset. The cresset last April inundated 55,000 acres. Citizens of Cape Girardeau, which was scarcely touched by the flood, expressed, like the St. Louisans, their vigorous support of the task of protecting neighbor communities that did suffer.

Explain Missouri Plan.

The Missouri plan was presented to Memphis men guests of the St. Louisans at a dinner last night at the Peabody Hotel, by Senator Hawes, Harold M. Bixby, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce.

Bixby related that the Senator and a Flood Control Committee of the chamber, both working on flood control plans, had decided to unite and, with Eugene Angert, attorney, to work out a single plan from the best expert information they could muster. Senator Hawes, he said, had suggested that the plan should not be designated with his name and should be introduced by Democratic members of Congress and Republicans in the House.

Advantage of Dairy Show.

Officers of the National Dairy Association, speaking at the dinner, declared that holding the National Dairy Show here every year, as they have voted to do, "would make St. Louis the agricultural capital of the country." Bixby responded that St. Louis already had underwritten a $50,000 group of buildings to house its enormous exhibits, afford a meeting place for great conventions, such as the St. Louis cannot now invite and the free most of the year for an indoor playground for St. Louis people. St. Louisans spent the day at the dairy show, which is in Memphis in connection with the Tri-State Fair this year.

AND SWEET

Every bite of food you eat must be digested, and the waste matter eliminated. That's sure. If your stomach is sluggish and old, from the excessive acids which keep eating away the gastric juices, you must dissolve them, or you never will be free from indigestion, sour risings, bloating and drowsiness after you eat.

Get a package of Pape's Diaphesin from your nearest drug store and chew one of the tablets after meals. Instantly the distress is relieved, it dissolves the acids in the stomach and you will have an appetite again like you had when a child. All drug stores have Pape's Diaphesin. More than 5 million packages are used a year.

Hereafter instead of soda take a glass. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all

PLAYERS M'LARNIN

A TITLE CANDIDATE AFTER KNOCKING KAPLAN OUT

As Enter Muny League Competition

Leagues—League Had Between 30 and 40 Years Ago—Olympic Team Laid.

McSkimming,
Municipal Soccer League is progressing organization meeting at Sherman Park were laid for the opening of the seasons of the senior ranking were represented. Junior Division teams ready to start.

It was agreed to form a Sunday morning division of four or more clubs, the players to be drafted from other teams in the regular league competition.

A schedule of games will be played and the winning club will be chosen as St. Louis' entry in the national competition.

The task of naming a coaching staff for this Olympic division will be undertaken by the executive committee.

Professional League Notes.
Several Municipal League graduates made their debuts in the professional league at Sportsman's Park last Sunday and some showed surprising talent.

It is rarely, indeed, that a first year youngster shows such skill, judgment and promise as did Tom Henratty, the red-headed boy who broke in at center halfback for the Ben Millers.

Heldren, an Amateur.
He is an unusual specimen in several ways, one of which is his signing of an amateur contract while playing with a professional club. Heldren does not accept remuneration for his services as a member of the Ben Miller club. Under the rules governing soccer competition, both in this country and abroad, amateurs may play with and against professionals without jeopardizing their standing.

While Heldren refuses to accept money for his services as a player, two other members of the league teams are holding out for increases in the weekly stipend.

The Ben Millers, winners in the opening day program over the Wellingtons, meet John Marr's Tabbers next Sunday. This should prove the more interesting of the two games composing the double-header at Sportsman's Park. The Morgans oppose the Wellingtons in the first game.

Morning Practice For Central High

THE Central High School football team now takes its daily workout in the mornings, from 9 to 11. Since the tornado, classes have been held from 12 to 5 in the afternoon in the old Yeatman Building.

Central is using Fairground Park as a practice field. Practice was interrupted by the storm but the squad apparently did not suffer and has won both games played this season.

Coach Walker's team has defeated Webster Groves and Kirkwood High School. Central will play Cleveland in the league opening at the new stadium Saturday.

CHARLESTON DOG WINS WEST VIRGINIA STAKE IN FIELD EVENTS

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Through a drizzling rain and sharp winds, State House John, a pointer owned by D. H. Morton of Charleston, W. Va., emerged with colors flying beating a field of 22 dogs and winning first honors in the West Virginia bird dog stake here yesterday. Second place went to the setter, Her Redman, owned by O. S. Redman of Westown, O., while another Charleston dog, the pointer Lad, owned by B. K. Kite, page, took third place.

DEFEATED MAN TWICE FLOORS CALIFORNIAN

But Jimmy Responds by Knocking Former Featherweight Champion Down Four Times.

The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Jimmy McLarnin's flying fists beat a pre-emptive challenge to Sam Mandell, the lightweight champion, when they knocked out Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight titleholder, in the eighth round here last night.

Coming out of the West behind a blaze of advance notices which Chicago fight fans took with relish of salt, McLarnin fought far ahead of the best things that had been said of him. Kaplan, who was being polished for a chance at the lightweight title, offered solid resistance at the start, but faded under the McLarnin whaling.

Victor Floored Twice.

Six thousand fight fans seemed satisfied that it was the greatest fight Chicago has seen since boxing was recognized by the Legislature. Kaplan had floored Mandell down once in the first round and again in the second, only to have the Far Westerner come back with a power that would not be stopped.

McLarnin dropped Kaplan in the fourth for a three count. In the fifth he repeated, only Kaplan stayed down for nine. Hard rights did the work both times. In the eighth another solid right crumpled Kaplan, who staggered up at once. A right cross to the jaw hit him and the bout was over. McLarnin weighed 154 pounds and Kaplan 136.

The conquest has made McLarnin the most probable choice of Promoter Jim Mullen for the fight in which Mandell has agreed to defend his title here Nov. 15.

Three other bouts on the card ended in knockouts. My Sullivan of St. Paul dropped Howard McNamee of Louisville in the fourth round. Rolando Saucero, the Cuban sensation, stopped Earl Blue of Orange, N. J., in the fifth round. Archie Bell, the bantamweight challenger, won by a technical knockout in the 11th Lencho of Mexico in the fifth round.

All fights were to have gone 19 rounds.

TRAYNOR, TIRED OF COLD ROAST BEEF, TO GO AFTER PHEASANTS

The Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19.—Harold (Red) Traynor, Pirate captain and third baseman, shuns the social whirl, and as a result will spend the balance of the cold winter winds of Wisconsin instead of going to his home in Boston as has been his annual off-season custom.

"Last winter the banquet and lunched racket was overdone in Boston," Traynor has been quoted as saying. "For one solid week I never went to bed before 2 o'clock in the morning and never sleep a half for all time spent in a neutral corner."

Traynor today was on his way to his bungalow at Yellow Lake, Wis., where several other major leaguers, including Burleigh Grimes and Bubbles Hargrave, have retreats. Pie's program includes a pheasant hunting expedition into North Dakota with Grimes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The stock market had another sharp sinking spell today from which it made only partial recovery. After an unimpressive opening rally, a series of selling attacks were launched against popular stocks, while others eventually undermined the general listing. Extreme declines ran from 3 to 10 points in a number of issues, the rapidity of the decline touching off a number of "stop-loss" which swelled the volume of liquidation.

The reaction, like one earlier in the week, was not directly associated with anything in the day's news, although the publication of the third quarterly earnings report by the Republic Steel Co. probably added to the general uneasiness of the steel share. The weekly steel trade reviews expressed conflicting opinions as to the future trend in that industry, iron age calling attention to two factors which might make for improvement while the American Metal market ventured the prediction that a definite turn for the worse had taken place.

Speculative sentiment, judged by commission house comment, was predominantly bearish. There was a feeling in many quarters that the technical position of the market has not been sufficiently corrected by the recent decline and the market generally was "tippy." It was generally conceded, however, that the redemption of the second Liberty loan set up a huge potential investment demand for securities.

Some "Bull" Features.

Three features of the day were capable of bullish interpretation, namely, the reduction in the call money rate from 4 to 3½ per cent, the lowest of the month; the sharp drop in the daily average of crude oil production last week, and the appointment of a committee of Missouri Pacific directors to take up the question of the payment of nearly 50 per cent in back dividends on the preferred stock.

Missouri Pacific was heavily bought on the announcement of the directors' action, climbing 4 points to 112x, the highest price since the reorganization of the road in 1916.

Oil Production Decrease Helps.
The unexpectedly large decrease in crude oil production last week infused new life in the oil shares, which moved upward under the leadership of General Asphalt and Houston. Special buying also took place in the Southwestern steels, Wabash responding to buying interest in its shares by the Kansas City interests who were accumulating the stock, while the Missouri Pacific issue were in demand. There are now back dividends of nearly 50 per cent on the preferred issue. Radio and Pathé "A" quickly extended their initial gains to about 2 points each and Cluett Peabody, American Linseed, corn and linseed stocks were in demand, making new high ground. Case Threshing jumped 5 points in the early trading. Gimbel Bros. was one of the few soft spots, selling down 2 points before the end of the first hour.

Spanish Pesetas Lower.
Sharp recessions in Spanish pesetas and Norwegian kroner feature the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling and French francs held firm around 4.563¢ and 3.92¢ cents, respectively.

Steel Industry Situation.

Iron Age says two developments of the week are taken to indicate that a turn in the steel market is imminent. One is a rather pronounced movement of miscellaneous orders of all products, and the other is a marked turning toward weakness in prices, with a virtual confusion in respect to strip steel and pipe, the result more of competition among makers than of the pressure from buyers. Both of the Iron Age composite prices make new lows this week, pig iron declining from $15.09 to $17.84 a ton, and finished steel from $2.31 a cent a pound to $2.30 cents. Not since 1916 has pig iron been so low.

A cup of India Tea is the most refreshing and stimulating drink in the world. The black, fermented tea, as used in England, makes the finest beverage. The fermentation gives it the kick.

Tea is a natural stimulant. It restores your flagging energy. It braces up your nerves. In fact, it tones up the whole body as no other drink can do.

But you can only appreciate the value of tea fully when it is made in the right way. Follow these instructions carefully, and you'll realize how delicious tea can be.

Use India Tea or a blend containing India Tea, and make it in the correct way. Use an earthenware teapot, previously warmed. Put into it one teaspoonful of India Tea for each person. Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils. Allow to stand for 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little milk or cream into each cup before serving the tea. It greatly improves the flavor. Then add sugar to taste. India Tea also makes the best iced tea.

Most of the packet tea people in America sell brands containing India Tea. Look at every packet you buy and see that it states that the packet contains India Tea or a blend containing India Tea. Most Tea Bags also contain India Tea.

DISEASE NEW TO U. S. TRACED TO COW'S RAW MILK

Undulating or Malta Fever
Easily Confused With Typhoid, Reported to Health Association.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—Evidence that infected raw milk is the primary cause of a comparatively new and serious disease in Minnesota was presented yesterday before the American Public Health Association, in session here. At the close of the paper health officers from California, New York and Iowa came forward to tell of the appearance of this disease in their states and of efforts to understand and fight it.

The malady, known as undulating fever, was until about five years ago confined to Mediterranean countries and known as Malta fever, caused by infected goat's milk. Dr. Paul E. Orr, Michigan Department of Health described 16 cases studied in his State. All those affected had taken of raw cow's milk. Nine of the 16 got milk from herds infected with contagious abortion, or Bang's disease.

Easily Confused With Typhoid.

There is evidence, Dr. Orr declared, that this disease may be caused by an organism practically identical with the organism in infected goats. Health officials should see that physicians in their States know of the presence of the disease, he urged, because it is sometimes confused with typhoid or other more familiar maladies, and the infection has been known to remain in an individual for several years.

Dr. J. L. Pomeroy of Los Angeles reported 12 cases of undulating fever in California, since March, eight of them in one county. Twenty-four cases in New York State, none under 16 years of age, were reported, and 18 cases in Iowa.

This disease brings up the urgent question of whether raw milk should be sold at all, said Dr. Orr. Pasteurization would not only be a safeguard against this fever but against tuberculosis as well, he said.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Milton C. Work.

QUESTION and answer department is always interesting to readers of periodicals, no matter what the subject, and I wish I had the space to conduct for my readers a department which would give my correspondence upon such interesting bridge subjects as "Bidding," "Play," "Laws," "Principles," "Couture," and "General Ethics." But, while it is impossible to do that on any extensive scale, I am going to give you some expert opinions gleaned from the Question and Answer department of an English periodical, and point out some differences of bridge theory which exist between the two sides of the Atlantic.

England still prefers No Trumps for many types of hands which we class as "sliders," but they will bid No Trumps as lightly as we do now in this country. It is a case of temperament. The conservative Englishman takes up new ideas less readily than we do; but frequently he follows us eventually in matters of bridge laws and conventions.

Recently I found the following example hand in a London newspaper, commented upon by one of the most celebrated English writers:

Spades—A-Q-X
Hearts—A-J-X
Diamonds—Q-X
Clubs—K-X-X-X

The question was what should West bid. South having passed, the English authority comments as follows:

"This case illustrates a very important point in bidding: namely, that where Dealer has passed, the Second Hand can make a declaration (we would say a 'bid') on a weaker hand than in any other place at the table. The Fourth Hand after this pass needs a stronger hand than any other player to open the bidding. If West passes, East will probably pass, unless he has an extremely strong hand; and the combined hands, which, together, must yield a game, may be wasted."

I heartily endorse this; it is a line of sound reasoning to which American writers have given too little attention. There are occasions when a dealer should pass and a second hand, after the dealer's pass, should bid. But the way in which that particular theory is here expounded suggests that the writer thinks a dealer should pass with the above hand.

No American expert holding that hand in the dealing position would think of passing. The hand has three suits safely stopped and the fourth possibly stopped; it contains one Ace and one Queen above the average of Ace...King, Queen, Jack. Its high-card count on the basis of Ace 4, King 3, Queen 2 and Jack 1, totals 16; and in most hands this would prove to be sufficient for a No Trump. If the hand were weakened by substituting a small Spade for the Queen, a small Heart for the Jack, and a Jack of Clubs for the King, I should agree with the English comment that the hand would be strong enough for a second hand No Trump, but a bit weak for a dealer to bid.

The English, after denouncing the infomratory double for years, recently have adopted it; but naturally they do not yet appreciate all its advantages. In that same article was given the following hand:

Spades—A, Queen, X.
Hearts—X.
Diamonds—A, King, Queen, X, X.
Clubs—A, King, X, X.

The question was what West should do after a bid of one Heart by South; and the English authority renders a verdict in favor of two Diamonds. He states that he cannot see any sense in an infomratory double with this hand as it would force the partner to bid something that he has not got, and that the hand in question is strong enough to play at Diamonds. With the latter conclusion there can be no disagreement; but the former is most curious.

When the doubler has such tremendous high-card strength, it is not expected that the partner will have a high-card bid length in some one suit is all that is needed. In this case if the partner should hold four or five Clubs and two Diamonds, the result doubtless would be much better at Clubs than at Diamonds; and there also is the chance that the partner may have five worthless Spades, not strong enough to be bid independently, but that seems to be a good game if bid in response to West's double. The only danger is that the double may produce a bid of one Spade with only four worthless Spades in East's hand; but even if that happens, no serious result should ensue. West, after doubling and being answered with one Spade, could bid two Diamonds to show that he has not four Spades and has exceptionally strong Diamonds; and East could pass if he held but four weak Spades, could rebid if he held five.

For each sandwich allow two medium thin slices of cold boiled ham. Lay the ham in French dressing for a few minutes. Drain, and dip in a plain fritter batter. Fry in deep fat and drain on soft paper. Place one of the slices of ham on a hot plate, add lettuce and cover with another slice of the fried ham. Pour orange rai-sin sauce over the sandwich and serve at once.

CORDUROY VELVET COMES BACK FOR SPORT WEAR

Jewel Frocks Are the Very Newest Fashion in the Evening Mode—Black and Brown Are the Leading Colors.

By Anne Avery-Ames.

THE CASUAL OBSERVER might conclude after seeing the various fashion showings which have been staged in the past few weeks, that sports clothes have been relegated to the background in favor of new wardrobe. But this impression comes only from comparison with the models of a past season, when the sports influence dominated fashions. This season sports clothes are shown in their true proportion, and while not predominating in numbers, are as important as ever in the smart woman's wardrobe.

Now details give added interest to the sports materials: tweed, velveteen, homespun, jersey, the weaves of kasha, cashmere and woolcrepe. Did you know that the newcomer in the ranks of sports fashions is corduroy? Of course, it wears forever, but who cares about that? Its chic lies in its rough and ready appearance. As someone has very aptly put it, the new sports costumes are made to look like "she's been working."

Four costumes pictured illustrate the important points in this mode. The tweed frock combines two of Chanel's features. It has frayed edges which she is using to trim sports frocks, and it is one-piece, as a number of her models are. The pleats opening below the belt (and most of the new sports outfits are worn with belts) give an easy width to the skirt.

Jersey and Velveteen

The hand-knitted sweater is the traditional ally of a Chanel sport suit, and many of her newest are knitted in three shades. The smartest sweaters are of angora, brushed wool, Zephyr yarn or tweed-knit fabric.

Jersey and velveteen are one of the season's popular couples. Tweed with velveteen, if less often seen, is an extremely chic combination. Velveteen and cashmere is also used.

French designers maneuver and twist to put over every high waistline, and one of their results is the manner of pleating exemplified in the jersey frock illustrated, with the pleats extending up into the blouse of the frock. Buckles, which have a place on many afternoons, as well as sports frocks, and a wool flower, are new accessories. Coats are of first importance in the sports outfit. A new costume has a jacket and a three-quarter length coat. Several smart women at the resorts are wearing a satiny jacket of suede cloth or leather in place of the cardigan.

Under the tree where the shadows dance lights on the bluebird's wings gleam and glint and the brook gleams brightly, this is the spot that the children love, the spot of wings and leaves above; swing up, swing down! Here waits the swing that the farmer made, lightly it journeys through sun, through shade, now fast, now slow. Thrilling, such travel, beyond compare, breathes the rush of the fragrant air; swing high, swing low!

The BENSON MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE © CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

THIS HAS HAPPENED.
Vance eliminated Miss St. Clair as a suspect by demonstrating that the person who shot Benson must have been approximately six feet tall. Word is brought that a large gray automobile, seen outside Benson's house the night of the murder, is listed to Pyle. Pyle admits that he had intended calling on Benson, but had changed his mind. He mentions that he saw Leacock in front of the house.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXI

"IN other circumstances," said the Major, "I might defer reverently to your charming theories. But with all the circumstantial and presumptive evidence I have against Leacock, it strikes my inferior legal mind as sheer nonsense to say, 'He just couldn't be guilty because his hair is parted in the middle, and he tucks his napkin under his chin.' There's too much logic against it."

"I suppose your logic is irrefutable—as all logic is, no doubt. You've probably convinced many innocent persons by sheer reason that they were guilty."

Vance stretched himself weary.

"What do you say to a light repast on the roof of the unattractive Pyle's flat?"

In the summer dining room on the roof of the Stuyvesant Club we found Maj. Benson sitting alone, and Markham asked him to join us.

"I have good news for you, Major," he said, when we had given our order. "I feel confident I have my man; everything points to him. Tomorrow will see the end. I hope."

The Major gave Markham a questioning frown.

"I don't understand exactly. From what you told me the other day, I got the impression there was a woman involved."

Markham smiled awkwardly, and avoided Vance's eyes.

"A lot of water has run under the bridge since then," he said.

"The Major had in mind was eliminated as soon as we began to creak up on her. But in the process I was led to the man. There's little doubt of his guilt."

I felt pretty sure about it this morning, and just now I learned that he was seen by a credible witness in front of your brother's house within a few minutes of the time the shot was fired."

"Is there any objection to your telling me who it was?" The Major was still trying.

"None whatever. The whole city will probably know it tomorrow. It was Captain Leacock."

Major Benson stared at him in disbelief.

"Impossible! I simply can't credit it. That boy was with me three years on the other side, and I got to know him pretty well."

"I can't help thinking there's a mistake somewhere. . . . The police informed him, 'It was my own investigation that turned up the Captain.'

The Major did not answer, but his silence bespoke his doubt.

"Y'know," put in Vance. "I feel the same way about the Captain that you do, Major. It rather pleases me to have my impressions verified by one who has known him so long."

What, then, was Leacock in from the other house that night? urged Markham acidulously.

"He might have been singing carols beneath Benson's window," suggested Vance.

Before Markham could reply he was handed a card b. the head-waiter. When he glanced at it, he gave a grun' of satisfaction, and directed that the bill be sent up immediately. Then, turning back to us, he said:

"We're to learn something more now. I've been expecting this man Higginbotham. He's the detective that followed Leacock from my office this morning."

Higginbotham was a wiry, pale-faced youth with fishy eyes and a shifty manner. He slouched up to the table and stood hesitantly before the District Attorney.

"Sit down and report, Higginbotham," Markham ordered.

"These gentlemen are working with the case."

"I picked up the boy while he was waiting for the elevator," the man began, eying Markham craftily.

"He went to the subway and rode up town to Seventy-ninth and Broadway. He walked through Eighth to Riverside Drive and went in the apartment-house at No. 94. Didn't give his name to the boy—not right in the elevator."

"He stopped for a couple hours, some down at 42nd, and hopped a taxi. I picked up another one, and followed him. He went down the drive to Seventy-second through Central Park, and east on Fifty-ninth. Got out at Avenue A, and walked out on the Queensborough bridge."

"About half way to Blackwell's Island he stood leaning over the rail for five or six minutes. Then he took a small package out of his pocket, and dropped it in the river."

"What size was the package?" There was repressed eagerness in Markham's question.

Higginbotham indicated the measurements with his hands.

"How thick was it?"

"In or so, maybe."

Markham leaned forward.

"Concise. It must have been a Colt automatic."

"Sure, it could. Just about the right size. And it was heavy, too. I could tell by the way he handled it, and the way it hit the water."

"All right," Markham was pleased. "Anything else?"

"No, sir. After he'd ditched the gun, he went home and stayed. I left him there."

When Higginbotham had gone Markham nodded at Vance with melancholy elation.

"There's your criminal agent."

"What more would you like?"

"Oh, lots," drawled Vance.

Major Benson looked up, perplexed.

"I don't quite grasp the situation. Why did Leacock have to go to Riverside Drive for his gun?"

"I have reason to think," said Markham, "that he took it to Miss St. Clair the day after the shooting—for safe-keeping probably. He wouldn't have wanted it found in his place."

"Might he not have taken it to Miss St. Clair's before the shooting?"

"I know what you mean," Markham answered. (It, too, recalled the Major's assertion the day before that Miss St. Clair was more capable of shooting his brother than was the Captain.) "I had the same idea myself. But certain evidential facts have eliminated her as a suspect."

"You've undoubtedly satisfied yourself on the point," returned the Major; but his tone was dubious. "However, I can't see Leacock as Alvin's murderer."

He paused, and laid a hand on the district attorney's arm.

"I don't want to appear presumptuous or unappreciative of all you've done; but I really wish you'd wait a bit before clapping that boy into prison."

"The most careful and conscientious of us are liable to error; sometimes it lies damnable; and I can't help believing that the facts in this instance have deceived you."

It was plain that Markham was touched by this request of his old friend; but his instinctive fidelity helped him to resist the other's appeal.

"I must act according to my convictions, Major," he said firmly, but with a great kindness.

Women Lose Passports
More Often Than Men

Women are more careless with their passports than men. Every day during the tourist season several Americans enter the consulate at Paris with a worried air and the news that their passports have disappeared. Four out of five are women.

Most of them are unable to explain how the precious paper happened to get out of their possession. With proper identification, they all receive new passports. Those whose European tour has just begun, and who expect to visit several countries, the extra time make a big dent in the pocketbook, so that part of the budget originally set aside for shopping expenditures and the purchase of presents for the kin back home.

GANG TRIBUTE COLLECTOR IS SHOT DEAD BY A BOOKMAKER

Ben Greenberg, Tired of Paying for Peace With Cuckoos, Kills Frank Selvaggi at 619 Chestnut.

ASSERTS GANGSTER HAD FORCED 'LOANS'

But This Was First Time He Tried to Collect With Pistol, and Intended Victim Fired Back.

With the killing of Frank Selvaggi, notorious Cuckoo gangster, by Ben Greenberg in the latter's cigar store and handbook establishment at 315 Chestnut street last night, it was disclosed that the Cuckoos, in addition to preying on East Side bootleggers, have been extorting money from St. Louis bookmakers.

The manoeuvre was made by Greenberg, who said he and other bookmakers ... order to keep peace with the gunmen, had been paying them regular tribute. Greenberg said Selvaggi had "borrowed" about $10 from him and was trying to hold him up for more when shot to death.

The scene of last night's shooting was half a block from the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, where several gang shootings have taken place. The shots were heard by citizens passing downtown for the Voiced Prophet parade.

$50 to $100 a Week for Peace. "Since I opened up my store two years ago, I've been bled until bleeding ceased to be a virtue," Greenberg told police. "It costs us bookies anywhere from $30 to $100 a week to keep peace with those fellows. I finally got tired of paying."

When they come into the place and say, 'Lend me $10 or $20,' I hand out the money to avoid trouble. Of course, the loan is never repaid. Selvaggi alone got from $300 to $400 from me. I knew him well.

"Besides the money, he got his cigars and cigarettes for nothing. He would come in and want to shake the dice box for his tobacco, but that would be a waste of time as I wouldn't pay it back. But last night he came in again and this time he brought a gun with him."

Greenberg's handbook establishment is in the rear of the Chestnut street store, partitioned from the cigar stand in front. At 7:45 o'clock, Greenberg was seated at a table in the rear, counting the day's receipts of several hundred dollars, spread before him on a table. His revolver rested on a nearby chair.

Charges Attempted Kidnap. —Selvaggi talked with revolver in his hand," Greenberg said in his third visit. He had been in during the morning and afternoon "mooching" cigarettes. This time he mumbled something that sounded like: "You Jew ... stick 'em up." Before I could make a move, he started shooting. I grabbed my revolver and fired four or five shots. I grabbed my revolver and fired four or five back at him. He turned and ran at the first shot. I didn't know how many friends he might have with him so I ran away."

Selvaggi got three times—twice in the chest near the heart and once in the leg—stabbed to the sidewalk, collapsed and died. His wife, with whom he lived at the St. Francis Hotel, across the street, heard the shots and was at his side when police arrived.

Greenberg ran to the saloon of his brother, Sam, at 621 Pine street, where he was arrested.

A witness told of seeing two men run out of the cigar store with Selvaggi, and they are thought to have been gang associates.

Three bullet holes were found in Greenberg's store. Police accepted his story of the shooting as substantially correct.

Selvaggi, who was 25 years old, had been arrested 20 times for investigation, but had not been convicted. He was indicted with five other men for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, whose charred bodies were found in a burned automobile near Collisville, Sept. 22, 1925, but was never tried. Green and Selvaggi were partners in the ownership of Eagle Park, a notorious East Side saloon. A brother, Tony Selvaggi, was killed by police in a fight near Collisville, July 1, 1924. Another brother, Alfred Selvaggi, was sentenced to prison last Nov. 17 for robbery.

Greenberg is 28 years old, and lives at 311 Whittier street. He formerly ran a saloon at Ewing avenue and Olive street. Police say he has been arrested 70 times for investigation. He was shot in a quarrel in 1920.

He was released on $20.00 bond.
